

In its 25th year, Adelaide's No Strings Attached Theatre of Disability stages the Australian premiere of the uplifting I Forgot to Remember to Forget, a sell-out of Singapore's 2018 True Colours Festival. Glenelg performer Kym Mackenzie talks about his role.

Kym Mackenzie, with fellow No Strings Attached Theatre of Disability performers Michaela Cantwell and Kathryn Hall, will present I Forgot to Remember to Forget at Adelaide Festival Centre. PICTURE: AAP/EMMA BRASIER

My name is Kym Mackenzie. I have been with No Strings Attached for nearly 19 years.

I have performed in many productions, like Trapped, which won the Inaugural Graham F Smith Peace Trust Award at the Adelaide Fringe in 2011.

I performed in the multi-award winning Sons & Mothers which, in 2012, won four awards.

I also performed in the world premiere of I Forgot To Remember to Forget in Singapore, in 2018. This was a great experience for me and it was my first trip to Singapore.

I am really excited to be back at the Space Theatre.

The first time I performed there was in Sons & Mothers.

It does not matter if you have a disability, you can still do things. I want show the audience all we can do as actors.

I Forgot to Remember to Forget, Space Theatre, July 3-6. Bookings at adelaidefestivalcentre.com.au What's On, Page 19